

Beer Glossary

"Those who drink beer will think beer"

Washington Irving

- Ale - Aromatic Brew made with top-fermenting yeast. More full bodied and bitter than a lager. Bass Ale
- Brown Ale - Brewed with roasted malts. Somewhat sweeter than traditional ale. Newcastle Brown Ale
- Dark (Dunkel) Beer - A lager that has been colored & flavored with roasted barley. Becks Dunkel
- Dopplebock - Strong, malty dark brown lager with lots of toasted, bready & sweet flavors.
Created by the Pauline Monks in Germany as "Liquid Bread". Spaten Optimator
- Hefe Weisse/Hefeweizen - Bottle conditioned, unfiltered wheat beer with the presence of wheat & yeast in the bottle. Franziskaner Weissbier
- IPA - India Pale Ale - a stronger, hoppier version of Pale Ale. Originally brewed for British troops in India. Dog Fish Head 60 Minutes IPA
- Kolsch - A light, golden ale which originated in Koln (Cologne) Germany. Gaffel Kolsch
- Lambic - Unique to Belgium. Wheat beer that is spontaneously fermented by airborne wild yeast. enhanced with natural fruit flavoring. Champagne like sparkle. Framboise (Raspberry) Lambic
- Lager - Beer made with bottom fermenting yeast. Fermented at a low temperature and then stored or "Lagered" for a period of time. Hofbrau HB Lager
- Oktoberfest - Medium strength, full colored malt accented lager. Originally brewed in Germany for the fall harvest season. Now available all year around. Spaten Oktoberfest
- Pilsner/Pils - Styled after the brew from the bohemian town of Pilsen, Czech Republic. A lager with assertive hop flavor. Pilsner Urquell
- Porter - Brewed like a stout, but not quite as heavy. Typically dark and full bodied with a chocolate, bittersweet flavor. Old Leghumper
- Stout - Very dark ale made with malted barley and highly roasted malts. Guinness Stout
- Trappist Ales - The term "Trappist" refers to beers made by Trappist Monasteries in Belgium. Typically strong & fruity, undergoing a second or third fermentation in the bottle. Chimay
